Dear Hiring Team,

June 5th, 2026

Dear Hiring Team,

Program coordination isn't just about keeping timelines on track—from my experience, it's about building a steady rhythm of collecting data from stakeholders, analyzing what's working, and refining how programs are delivered through close cross-functional collaboration. With a background spanning HR, Organizational Development, and Program Management, I've helped organizations run people-centered programs by translating ambiguous priorities into clear systems and evidence-based decisions. I'm excited to bring that same approach to Forth's mission of making clean transportation accessible to everyone—especially the communities that need it most.

At Vestas Wind Systems, I coordinated across three global locations to streamline onboarding processes for new hires, conducting stakeholder interviews to identify gaps and clarify job responsibilities. I also directed a Mergers & Acquisitions integration project—overseeing cross-functional stakeholder alignment, managing timelines, and keeping documentation current. Operating across Taiwanese, American, and Danish teams gave me firsthand experience with cross-cultural communication and the patience and adaptability it requires.

At NextGen Healthcare, I deepened my skills in project data collection and analysis—analyzing 2,000+ employee survey responses to identify engagement drivers and translating the findings into executive-ready reports that informed C-suite L&D decisions, while supporting five cross-functional projects and tracking deliverables and action items across teams.

In my current role as Program Manager at InGenius Prep, I manage 20+ programs end-to-end—scheduling partner meetings, taking notes, tracking action items, and coordinating logistics for training webinars that have reached 600+ participants. I conduct needs assessments with 25 global stakeholders, build out shared documentation for 70+ cross-functional staff, and maintain feedback loops that continuously improve program delivery and communications strategy—contributing to a 78% program enrollment rate. I've also coordinated working groups across Marketing, Sales, and Tech to launch 15+ programs, keeping each stakeholder lane clear and accountable.

This is how I approach work, grounded in my MS in Applied Organizational Psychology from USC: I diagnose what's actually happening through data, interviews, or surveys, then collaborate cross-functionally to design solutions that fit the real problem, and track key metrics to make sure the work lands. Forth's commitment to equitable, community-centered transportation—and the coordination and public-engagement work this role requires—are both genuine draws. I'm Portland-based, multilingual (Mandarin native, Spanish basic), and motivated by mission-driven organizations that measure success by who they serve.

Sincerely,

Jamie Cheng
