People operations isn't just about keeping systems updated—from my experience, it's about building the infrastructure that lets employees trust the company: accurate data, seamless onboarding, a well-run office, and someone who closes the loop. I'm excited to bring my attention to detail and employee-first mindset to Built In as a People Operations & Workplace Experience Specialist.

At InGenius Prep, I built documentation and process infrastructure for 70+ cross-functional staff—guides, workflows, and onboarding materials that reduced ramp-up time by 75%. Managing 20+ programs and 10+ vendors simultaneously taught me to balance competing priorities without dropping details. At Vestas Wind Systems, I supported the HRBP team on employee relations cases, streamlined onboarding across 3 global locations through gap analyses, and assisted with an M&A integration that required careful data migration—work that built the judgment and confidentiality standards this role demands.

My MS in Applied Organizational Psychology from USC (3.95 GPA) gave me a systems lens for HR—not just how to execute, but how to notice when a process isn't working and propose the fix. I'm currently based in Portland and open to relocating to Chicago for this role. Built In's culture of doing more and owning the result is exactly the environment where I do my best work. Thank you for considering my application—I look forward to discussing how I can contribute to a great employee experience at Built In.

Sincerely,

Jamie (Yi-Chieh) Cheng
