Dear Datadog Hiring Team,

Great HR partnering isn't just about resolving individual people issues—from my experience, it's about using data and cross-functional collaboration to advise leaders on the decisions that shape how teams perform and grow. With a background spanning HRBP support, employee-relations work, and people analytics, I'm excited to bring that mix of analytical rigor and genuine partnership to Datadog as a People Business Partner.

At Vestas Wind Systems, I worked directly alongside the HRBP team, delivering strategic HR solutions across employee relations, headcount, and succession planning, and assisting on employee relations cases while ensuring compliance with local labor laws. I learned how to balance business priorities with employee trust, and supported the design of an Inclusive Leadership workshop that scaled from 12 senior leaders to 23 global locations. That role gave me a clear sense of what it means to partner on people strategy with leaders, not just execute HR transactions.

At NextGen Healthcare, I analyzed 2,000+ employee experiences and translated them into reports that guided C-suite decisions on engagement and satisfaction—and I led a manager effectiveness initiative that turned feedback data into action. This is the data-driven consulting a strong PBP brings: diagnosing what's actually happening before recommending solutions. At ODN Oregon, I deepened that instinct, helping an HR team quantify $362K in leave costs to drive evidence-based policy change.

My approach is grounded in my MS in Applied Organizational Psychology (USC), which trained me to treat people challenges as systems: I diagnose with data, partner cross-functionally on solutions, and track metrics to ensure real progress. As an analytical organizer with a growth mindset, Datadog's position at the center of the AI era and the chance to partner with leaders in a fast-growing tech environment are both genuine draws. I'd love to bring this methodology to your People team.

Sincerely,

Jamie Cheng
