Dear SoFi Hiring Team,

A great workplace experience isn't just about running events and keeping the office humming—from my experience, it's about designing programs and operations, grounded in real feedback, that make people feel set up to do their best work. With a background spanning program operations, event logistics, and organizational development, I'm excited to bring that mix of operational care and people focus to SoFi as Associate Manager of Workplace Experience.

At InGenius Prep, I run the logistics engine: I manage end-to-end logistics for 20+ programs and 600+ participant events, refining delivery and operations as I go, and I built cross-functional processes and documentation for 70+ staff that cut onboarding time by 75%. Coordinating many moving parts—vendors, schedules, stakeholders—while keeping the experience consistent is exactly the muscle a regional workplace role relies on.

At Vestas Wind Systems, I optimized onboarding processes for new hires across 3 global locations and streamlined relocation logistics by coordinating with cross-functional teams—learning how much the operational experience shapes whether people feel welcomed and supported. I also strengthened engagement through well-being initiatives recognized among 1,000+ competitors, which is the heart of workplace experience: small, thoughtful touches that add up to belonging.

My approach is grounded in my MS in Applied Organizational Psychology (USC), which trained me to treat the workplace as a system: I diagnose with data where the experience breaks down, collaborate cross-functionally on solutions, and track metrics to keep improving. As an analytical organizer with a growth mindset, SoFi's mission to help members achieve financial independence and the chance to shape the East-region workplace experience are both genuine draws. I'd love to bring this energy to your team.

Sincerely,

Jamie Cheng
