Dear Brex Hiring Team,

Great recruiting isn't just about filling a req—from my experience, it's about reading the talent market through data, building genuine relationships, and continuously refining how you find and win the right people through cross-functional collaboration. With a background spanning recruiting, HR, and program management, I'm excited to bring that systems-minded, people-first approach to Brex as a Business Recruiter.

At Kronos Research, I owned a challenging international search end-to-end: I drafted job descriptions, posted openings, and researched global compensation, then engaged passive talent through personalized communication—work that grew applications 566% in two months. I also organized recruiting events and moderated C-suite panels at top universities, reaching 230+ students and 80+ applicants. I learned early that sourcing is a craft: it rewards organization, follow-through, and a real candidate experience.

At InGenius Prep, I keep complex operations running across Marketing, Tech, and Sales teams, managing end-to-end lifecycles for 20+ programs and the logistics, documentation, and stakeholder alignment behind them. That habit of partnering closely with hiring stakeholders, mapping a process, and tracking it to completion is exactly what high-volume, full-cycle recruiting demands. At Vestas Wind Systems, I delivered HR solutions across recruiting, headcount, and succession planning, so I understand hiring as one lever inside a broader people strategy.

My approach is grounded in my MS in Applied Organizational Psychology (USC), which trained me to treat hiring as a system: I diagnose with data where a pipeline stalls, collaborate cross-functionally on the fix, and track results to make sure they hold. As an analytical organizer with a growth mindset, Brex's pace and the chance to build talent pipelines that scale with the business are both genuine draws. I'd love to bring this methodology to your Talent team.

Sincerely,

Jamie Cheng
