Dear Cursor Hiring Team,

Recruiting coordination isn't just scheduling tetris—from my experience, it's about making every candidate feel genuinely welcomed while keeping the whole process running like clockwork, then constantly finding ways to make it run better. With a background spanning program operations, HR, and organizational development, I'm excited to bring that mix of warmth and operational rigor to Cursor as a Recruiting Coordinator.

At InGenius Prep, I'm the person teams rely on to keep things moving: I own end-to-end scheduling and logistics for 20+ programs across Marketing, Tech, and Sales teams, making sure every stakeholder shows up informed, prepared, and on time, and I keep our ATS (Greenhouse) and data accurate so nothing falls through the cracks. I'm also the kind of person who sees inefficiency as a personal challenge—I'm always finding and executing on small improvements to how we operate. I've used Greenhouse extensively and pick up new ATS platforms fast, so Ashby would feel familiar quickly.

Beyond logistics, I genuinely love the people part. At Kronos Research I delivered a best-in-class candidate experience through personalized, warm communication—helping increase applications by 566% in two months—and at Vestas, I coordinated interviews and communications with senior leaders while handling confidential information with care. I'm a 97% extrovert who really does enjoy meeting new people and putting them at ease, whether they're introverted or extroverted.

My approach is grounded in my MS in Applied Organizational Psychology (USC), which trained me to treat operations as a system: I diagnose with data where things slow down, collaborate cross-functionally on the fix, and track results to make sure they hold. As an analytical organizer with a growth mindset, Cursor's mission to build the best tool for professional programmers—and the chance to help shape the team from the ground up—are both genuine draws. I'd love to be the person who makes every candidate's first impression of Cursor a warm, well-run one.

Sincerely,

Jamie Cheng
