Dear Mintlify Hiring Team,

Recruiting isn't just about filling a role—from my experience, it's about understanding what truly motivates a candidate, building genuine trust, and using data to keep getting sharper at finding and closing the right people. With a background spanning recruiting, program operations, HR, and organizational development, I'm excited to bring that mix of analytical rigor and human warmth to Mintlify as your second Talent hire.

At Kronos Research, I worked a role full-cycle: I drafted job descriptions, posted openings, sourced, and researched global compensation, then ran compelling, personalized outreach that helped increase applications by 566% in two months. I learned how much closing depends on understanding what a candidate actually wants—and on warm, creative communication that out-competes bigger brands. I also organized recruiting events and moderated C-suite panels, reaching 230+ students and 80+ applicants.

At InGenius Prep, I work directly with stakeholders across Marketing, Tech, and Sales teams—iterating requirements and processes—and I drive metrics-informed decisions, using enrollment and feedback data to experiment, iterate, and improve outcomes. I take full ownership from high-leverage strategy down to the operational work that keeps things running, and no task feels beneath me. I also use AI tools daily to cut tedious work without sacrificing quality—something I'd love to bring to your sourcing and pipeline work.

My approach is grounded in my MS in Applied Organizational Psychology (USC), which trained me to treat recruiting as a system: I diagnose with data where the funnel slows, collaborate cross-functionally on the fix, and track results to make sure they hold. As an analytical organizer with a growth mindset, Mintlify's belief that Talent is the single most important thing to protect as you scale—and the chance to help build that function fresh off your Series B—are both genuine draws. I'd love to help you uphold that bar.

Sincerely,

Jamie Cheng
