Dear Twitch Hiring Team,

The best culture and people-development work is built and measured, not just felt—it lives in the programs, the events, the vendor relationships, and the data that shows whether people feel connected and are growing. That's the work I love, and it's why this Program Manager, Culture & People Development role drew me in: the chance to own culture and development programs end-to-end for a community-driven company.

This is the core of what I do. At InGenius Prep, I manage the lifecycle of 20+ programs and 10+ vendors, run needs assessments with 25+ stakeholders, and facilitate training for 600+ participants—coordinating programs, events, and the people behind them. At NextGen Healthcare, I analyzed 2,000+ employee experiences to guide C-suite decisions on culture and engagement, and at Vestas I designed and piloted an Inclusive Leadership workshop that scaled from 12 leaders to 23 global locations and spearheaded an HR-award-winning culture and engagement communications strategy.

What ties it together is a people-first, data-grounded approach rooted in my background in organizational psychology (MS, USC): I use stakeholder partnership and data to understand what builds connection and capability, design programs that fit, and keep measuring impact. I'd be excited to bring that to Twitch's Culture & People Development team.

Warmly,

Jamie Cheng
