

Jamie Cheng

A Solution-focused, Data-driven, and People-oriented Professional

Dedicated to Improving People Experience

213-700-3831

Open to Relocation — Irvine, CA

(Hybrid)

jamiecheng0103@gmail.com

LinkedIn

Dear Tarsus People Team,

The Specialist, People Operations role caught my attention because it sits exactly where I do my best work: owning the full employee lifecycle, keeping HCM data clean, and being the dependable first point of contact when employees have questions. As a commercial-stage biopharma scaling its team, Tarsus needs People Operations that are both rigorous and genuinely human—and your stated values of commitment to patients, championing innovation, and teamwork to amplify impact are the kind of culture I want to help operationalize, one well-run process at a time.

Much of what this role covers is already my day-to-day. At InGenius Prep I serve as a first point of contact for staff questions on policy and process, redesign manual workflows into scalable systems, and built the SOPs and self-service knowledge base that cut onboarding time by 75% for 70+ cross-functional staff—while running needs assessments with 25+ stakeholders that drove a 78% program enrollment rate. Earlier, as an HR Business Partner Assistant at Vestas Wind Systems, I handled lifecycle work end to end: optimizing onboarding across three global locations, migrating and merging employee records through a Mergers & Acquisitions project, and supporting employee relations cases while ensuring compliance with local labor laws and confidentiality. That combination of data accuracy, lifecycle ownership, and discretion maps directly to the onboarding/offboarding, HCM administration, and compliance core of this position.

I want to be candid about two things. With roughly three years of HR experience I sit at the entry of your 3-5+ year preference rather than the top of it, and my hands-on time with ADP Workforce Now specifically has been at the user level rather than as a system administrator. What I bring instead is a fast learning curve with HR systems (SAP, Rippling, and Greenhouse) and a track record of turning messy, manual processes into documented, scalable ones—exactly the process-improvement and data-integrity instinct this role rewards. My pro bono consulting with the Organization Development Network of Oregon is a recent proof point: I facilitated CEO/HR discovery interviews and analyzed 300+ leave cases, surfacing $362K in costs that drove concrete policy redesigns.

What draws me to Tarsus specifically is the chance to support people through real growth at a company where the People function is treated as a partner to the business, not an afterthought. I'd love to bring my systematic, evidence-based, and people-first approach to your team and help make every employee's first day—and every day after—run smoothly. I would also note that I would require visa sponsorship, and I hope that won't stand in the way of a conversation. Thank you for considering my application.

Warm regards,

Jamie Cheng

Jamie (Yi-Chieh) Cheng